AFRICENTRIC LEADERSHIP & MANAGEMENT Summer Institute

Dr. Glenda P. Simms, Ph.D., LL.D. (HONS.)
C.E.O. Simms Consulting
Kingston Jamaica West Indies

An outstanding leader who has broken new grounds in the fight for gender equality and social justice in Canada, Turks and Caicos and Jamaica. Dr. Simms is also a descendent of the Jamaican Maroons and has links with African Nova Scotian communities “... some 550 Jamaican Maroons landed in Halifax in July 1776. They had a long tradition of resistance to European rule in Jamaica ... and were received in Nova Scotia with greater awe and consideration than was ever bestowed ... they were put to work in building the fortification at the Citadel in Halifax, accommodated in nearby rental premises and kept under surveillance ...” — Dr. Bridglal Pachai

The Africentric Leadership and Management Summer Institute for Educators is a five-day intensive training program designed to provide participants with the vision and skills necessary to exercise culturally competent and culturally responsible leadership and management practices. This initiative is a pilot project of the ALI which is currently being developed by CACE and it's partners.
